fraction or multiple, as in lines 1-8 of claim 6, but also includes the additional step, in lines 9-12 of claim 6, of controlling the voltage provided to the storage device by increasing or decreasing it above or below the ratio (multiple or fraction) in order to increase response to transients. The references do not teach that. Therefore, reconsideration and allowance of claim 6 over the references is respectfully requested.

7. Should this response not be deemed sufficient to place this application in condition for allowance, a telephone interview is earnestly solicited.

Respectfully submitted,

M. P. Williams
